— Tasting notes

The Transcontinental Rum Line reflects the great diversity that can be found around the world of rum production. Inspired by the voyage of rum between the country of distillation and its aging conditions, the founding principle of the range is transparency.

For the first time, the range introduces a multi-island blended rum designed specifically for mixing and cocktail making.

HIGH SEAS is a blend of three provenances: tropically aged rum from Panama, unaged high ester Jamaican rum and unaged grand arôme from Martinique. Each individual rum is carefully selected for its exceptional qualities that work together to craft a blend with the perfect balance of depth, structure and aromatic lift.

With three distinct production styles, HIGH SEAS captures the essence of these iconic rum-producing regions, each contributing to its vibrant style, inviting on a journey of rich, diverse flavors and complexity.

HIGH SEAS is designed for the drink-making community – both professional and at home – to provide a new expression that can enhance classic rum cocktails, tropical libations and modern mixology. Bottled at 45% and additive-free.

Profile – Harmonious and bold.

Nose – Exotic and aromatic. Ripe banana, toffee, pineapple, date, lily flowers.

Palate – Intense and balanced. Bitter orange, chestnut honey, salted butter and ginger.

Finish – Long and ethereal. Polished mahogany, roasted coffee, fresh pine and candied lemon.
